

Died.

DIED : At 8 o'clock Sunday morning, of whooping cough, Johnny, only son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Farrell, aged three and a half years,

Mr. and Mrs. Farrell have the sympathy of the entire community in their great bereavement. Little Johnny was never very strong and when he was taken with the whooping cough the anxious parents thought to better his condition by taking him to the mountains to avoid the heat of our summer. But instead of making him better they found that the high altitude had the opposite effect than that desired. He gradually grew worse, and after several days' illness passed away. He was a bright child. The body was buried at Fairview Cemetery and was followed to the grave by a large number of friends.
